

R. WILLIAM IDE

Bill Ide is Co-Chairman and a founder of MetaJure, Inc.

Bill is a partner at McKenna Long & Aldridge, a national law firm. In addition to his practice which focuses on ethics and compliance, corporate governance, special investigations and crisis management, he is on the Board of Directors of AFC Enterprises, Inc., a NASDAQ restaurant company (Governance and Audit Committees); Board of Directors of Albemarle Corporation, a NYSE chemical company (Compensation Committee and Nominating and Governance Committee); Board of Trustees of Clark Atlanta University (Audit and Governance Committees); Chair of the ABA Task Force on attorney-client privilege; Board of Directors of the Atlantic Legal Foundation; Board of Directors of the EastWest Institute (Executive, Compensation, Governance and Audit Committees). Bill is also standing counsel to the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey's Audit Committee.

Bill is former general counsel of Monsanto Company, former counsel to the United States Olympic Committee, former Chair of the Europe Eurasia Law Institute, founder and former Chair of the Georgia Legal Services Program, former Vice Chair of Kutak Rock LLP, a national law firm, and past President of the American Bar Association.

Bill has written numerous articles concerning corporate governance and rules of law which have been published in law journals, including the Metropolitan Corporate Counsel, Business Law Today, Georgia Bar Journal, Vanderbilt Law Review and Dispute Resolution Journal.

Bill received his J.D. from the University of Virginia and MBA from Georgia State University. He is admitted to practice law in Georgia and the District of Columbia. Bill lectures extensively on corporate governance.